

Politics at Ground Zero

Developing Political Leadership for the 21st Century

Politics at Ground Zero is a leadership development centre for aspiring, emerging and maturing political leaders.

We provide the resources for individuals to explore the options, develop the skills and prepare their whole person for authentic political leadership. The forum we provide fosters open discussion of ideas and approaches. Our members are diverse in their political persuasions, and united by their desire to serve society in a constructive and humane way. The tools we provide encompass the practical and the big picture; the immediate and the long-range; the active and the reflective.

Our Aims

- Develop emerging, maturing and experienced political leaders so that they are grounded in who they are and what they contribute, in alignment with how they want to serve society.
- Connect emerging, maturing and experienced political leaders with their authenticity and inner wisdom to bring new solutions to both national and global challenges.
- Provide coaching to build confidence, strength and resilience to tackle day to day challenges of political leadership while living a meaningful and balanced life.
- Provide a confidential space for political leaders to air challenges inherent in public life, regain a clear perspective and move on.
- Be a resource centre providing new tools and approaches for influential political leadership in the 21st century.

Our Vision

For political leaders to live authentic lives, be recognised for their positive contribution to the greater good of mankind, and be role models for our younger generation and the world.

Our Mission

Through authentic political leadership development bring about fundamental change in:

- The way individuals prepare themselves for political leadership
- How emerging political leaders conduct themselves in public life
- How parties and individuals of differing political orientations work together for the greater common good

Political Leadership—to influence what matters

Politics at Ground Zero

Our Programs

Exploring Political Leadership™

candidly examines political leadership as a career and clarifies your decision making processes right at the start of your political leadership journey.

Igniting the Leader in You™ connects you to a way of leadership that is grounded in authenticity, integrity and contribution, and utterly unique to you as a political leader.

Branding Yourself to the World™

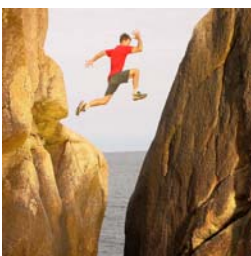

helps you build your authentic personal brand, your unique strength and advantage. It is a constant in all your personal and professional contexts, and remains steadfast during discontinuous change. Once you discover, nurture and express your authentic personal brand, you brand yourself to the world.

Mastering the Realities of Political Leadership™ helps you with the realities, complexities and practicalities of political leadership. Political leaders need to stay grounded, influential and contribution-oriented.

Situational Coaching is a flexible and confidential service for any challenge, issue or project, public or personal. Responsive and intensive, it will move you forward with clarity, focus and direction.

How our programs benefit political leaders

- You develop your authentic and influential brand that allows you to win the hearts and minds of your constituents.
- You become strongly grounded in who you are, what you stand for, and in your authentic contribution to your constituents, political party and society.
- You know what drives your uniqueness and how to harness it to inspire positive change.
- Your communication becomes a clear and powerful expression of your authenticity and your core value, which makes people take notice of your message.
- You become a credible and trusted voice in your electorate regardless of whether your party is in power or in opposition.
- You gain the trust, credibility, and support of your community and peers.
- You become a positive and authentic voice in the media, valued for your progressive track record and contribution.
- You see every adversity as an opportunity to grow and evolve as a human being and reputable political leader.
- You enjoy the deeper connection with your constituents.
