Invite you to our

WOMEN IN BUSINESS FORUM

with guest speaker

Elisabeth Gortschacher

Women, the Emerging Leaders of the New World

There is a silent revolution going on across the globe and it is only a question of time for women to emerge as the leaders of the new world. Worldwide we see growing communities of women who passionately believe that the world needs their insight and inclusive perspective to make the contribution that only they as individuals can make. Increasingly Women feel compelled to share their wisdom and support each other in claiming their innate power to bring about transformational change for the greater good of mankind.

In today's presentation Elisabeth will give you a glimpse of what it means to live in this new world, and the challenges and unprecedented opportunities it offers. By way of real life examples, from her clients and her own, you will be inspired by the infinite source of wisdom available to each and every one of us and the transformation that takes place when this innate wisdom is expressed in our everyday lives.

About the Presenter:

Elisabeth is a professional industry accredited coach who specialises in political leadership development and authentic personal branding. She established her international coaching and training company, E.E.G. Coaching Pty Ltd in 1998.

In her work as professional coach, Elisabeth draws on 25+ years experience in leadership and management, organisational development and change management in Healthcare, Local Government and Education to help her clients get to the core of what is important and in designing their life, business and career from that place. Elisabeth's contribution is to create more authenticity and integrity in the world through being a role model in every area of her life, and her inspiring work with emerging political leaders.
